

The NCAA brings everyone involved with North Carolina Aquaculture together to focus on issues that affect you!

One Voice for NC Aquaculture to represent you on state and national issues.

Information on issues that impact your farm and the NC aquaculture industry.

Your one stop for information on research, policy, news and fellow producers.

One Voice:

It is difficult for one producer, one company, or one species group to influence policy and government decision-makers. However, by working together the NCAA and NAA will be heard. As the "One Voice" for NC aquaculture, the NCAA works to ensure that you are represented on issues that affect you most.

Information:

Through NCAA quarterly newsletters, NCAA keeps members up to date on information regarding industry events, issues, changes in state and federal regulations, and other topics of importance such as upcoming programs, workshops, etc. Our goal is to give you up to date information with time to plan in advance.

Membership Benefits:

Membership affiliation with the National Aquaculture Association, Quarterly NCAA Newsletters, and statewide and nationwide industry support for your operation! Participation and input from members of the NCAA sets priorities and programs that are essential to the success of the association and the NC aquaculture industry.

Your one stop for news:

Collaboration from the NCAA with the NC Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, NC State University, NC Cooperative Extension, USDA Farm Service Agency, NC Community College Aquaculture Programs, NC Wildlife Resources Commission, Aquaculture Producers, Aquaculture Support Industry, and ANYONE involved with NC Aquaculture gives you one stop news on information that affects you!
