Narrative Explanation, continued

I performed a follow up inspection at this facility today.

I have noted the following correction has been made:

.0204 Primary Enclosures / Space - There are no inadequate space issues with the large breed puppies today. The store manager has moved a bank of larger cages on the floor for these pups. The cages were present last week but were located in an area where the temperature was not able to be kept under 85* F. This is noted as acceptable.

Comments:

I noted the temperature in the puppy room today at 11:20am was 77.3*F. The overall temperature in the store was much more comfortable that on 6/18/15. I had been advised on the last inspection there was a problem with the AC unit. Today the manager advised that all the air filters have been changed and that had made a difference. The manager also advised that the AC repair company had been contacted to come and check the units either yesterday or today. Since they did not come yesterday he was expecting them today.

I advised the manager that it was acceptable to have the additional larger bank of cages on the sales floor to house any large breed puppy that there was no room for in the puppy room. In looking at the store arrangement I made the suggestion to use the meet and greet room for additional large cage space and to create another meet and greet area - this was only a suggestion to help with making sure there is an adequate amount of large puppy cages for the store.
