Narrative Explanation

Annual inspection performed today, housing areas is clean and odor free at time of inspection with no apparent signs of illness or injury noted. Ambient temperature is within range, and all required records are on site and to AWA Order.

Previous inspection was performed on 1-5-16, that inspection noted damaged Kuranda Beds, and the floors in the housing area were showing wear down to the sealant.

Today's Inspection:

* I viewed no damaged Kuranda Beds at today's inspection.

* Floors - top epoxy to the floors in the housing area do still show some wear from chemicals and cleaning. Advised shelter to begin the process to have the floors resealed.

This shelter has a new Veterinary Health Care Manager that I met today. Her and I discussed several rules/ requirements, and I advised I would email her the Animal Welfare Act and rules. Also, she will look into what steps have been taken by the county to repair the floors if any.

This shelter is well maintained and the animals housed here appear happy, healthy and well cared for.
