9:00 - 11:00

A New View of Termites

Dr Roger Gold

Texas A&M University

A relevant discussion on the biological characteristics of termites and how that biological knowledge translates into effective methods of control, with a profound appreciation for all principles of IPM involved from one of the industry's foremost researchers.

11:00-12:00

Ants- The good, the bad and the beautiful

Dr Pat Zungoli, Clemson University

Ants are a critical component of most healthy, stable outdoor environments. However, even good ants in the landscape may be considered a pest if their presence is obvious. This session will be aimed at understanding which ants need controlling, which should be left alone, and which strategies may manage pest ants to prevent them from becoming a landscape feature.

12:00-1:30 Lunch on Your Own

There are a wide variety of restaurants near Trident Tech.

1:30-2:30 IPM in Schools/Borate Testing

Mr. Lee Galloway, Clemson Department of Pesticide Regulation

IPM in schools discussion will focus on what DPR is doing and comparisons with neighboring states. Wood Sampling discussion will cover borate treatment inspections, problems encountered, and wood testing as a part of the inspection program

1:30pm-2:30pm

50 Years of Pest Control Service

Mr. Paul Hardy, Senior Technical Services Director, Orkin, Inc.
