Narrative Explanation

Annual inspection today with Lt. Howell and Adoption Coordinator Alyssa Whitney both in attendance.
This older facility continues to be a work in progress for routine maintenance. The staff makes considerable effort to keep the shelter odor free, appearing clean and well managed.

Items of concern are as follows:
1. 0204(b)> The vents that are in the back wall of each kennel are surrounded by a steel/iron structure support plate imbedded into the cinder block wall. The cinder block is deteriorating thus exposing the steel /iron plates. This situation is making it difficult to keep clean and is subject to cause possible injuries.

The animals on the premises today seem to be well cared for and injury free. Miss Whitney, I am told, strives in working with the public and rescue groups to re home adoptable animals from the shelter. This is reflected in the paperwork/record keeping.

New gate doors have been installed in the kennel area.
Lt. Howell has made a bank of cages out of wire crates and PVC pipe in the quarantine area to house felines for their 72 hour hold. These are structurally sound and meet with AWA(Animal Welfare Act) requirements.

The outside kennel area is in compliance. However, they have told me that they do not use it to house canines in the colder months of the year. All canines are housed inside during this time.

Narrative Explanation

Again, I am reiterating the fact that this facility, although as well as can be expected, is being maintained by the staff and maintenance crew, continues to deteriorate. Repairs are being done as they are needed and at this time they are able to meet and remain in compliance.

I will return on a as needed basis.
