AgroTip

Use agronomic testing to optimize greenhouse crops.

Several laboratory tests are available from the NCDA&CS Plant/Waste/Solution/Media Section to help growers of greenhouse crops keep abreast of potential nutritional problems.

Soiless media—Sample media prior to filling pots or bags to verify that pH and soluble salts are within the desired ranges.

Solution analysis— Submit samples of source water to determine if there are any problems that need to be corrected, such as high alkalinity or high mineral concentrations.

Submit samples of nutrient solutions to verify that the injector is working properly and that plants are receiving the targeted nutrient concentrations.

Plant tissue analysis— Submit samples every couple of weeks to monitor nutrient concentrations in the crop. This test predicts nutrient deficiencies or excesses before symptoms appear so growers can correct the problem quickly with as little reduction in yield as possible.

Dec. 17 deadline nearing to apply for farmland preservation grants

County governments and non-profit groups pursuing farmland preservation projects can apply for funding assistance from the N.C. Agricultural Development and Farmland Preservation Trust Fund, Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler announced recently. Applications are due by 5 p.m. on Dec. 17.

"The General Assembly appropriated $1.7 million annually to the trust fund in the 2011-13 state budget, and we are hopeful these appropriations will continue," Troxler said. "Many communities across the state have developed voluntary agricultural districts because they recognize the importance of protecting farmland. We want to encourage more preservation efforts through the trust fund."

The trust fund's purpose is to support projects that encourage the preservation of qualifying agricultural, horticultural and forest lands to foster the growth, development and sustainability of family farms.

"Less than 2 percent of the world's population currently farms, and our population continues to grow. It is imperative that we preserve farmland to meet the growing global demand for food," Troxler said.

Grants can be awarded to secure agricultural conservation easements on lands used for agricultural production; to support public and private enterprise programs that promote profitable and sustainable agricultural, horticultural and forestland activities; and for the development of agricultural plans.

Applications and guidelines for the current funding cycle are online at www.ncadfp.org or by calling 919-707-3071.

N.C. State Fair wraps up third-largest fair

The N.C. State Fair closed with a total attendance of 965,297, good enough for third-highest all-time.

"I always judge a fair by how much fun people are having, and it looked like people had a great time at the 2012 State Fair," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "I want to thank everyone for coming out this year."

Through Food Lion Hunger Relief Day on Oct. 18, the fair continued its support of the Food Bank of Central and Eastern North Carolina. Fair patrons brought in 214,038 pounds of canned food to benefit the food bank.

Competitions remained a popular feature of the State Fair, including a record 9,000 entries in the flower and garden shows. The livestock, horticulture, and arts and photography competitions also had high participation.

Harris Teeter purchased the grand champion junior market steer shown by Billy Jones of Buncombe County for $22,500.

The fair played host to three sold-out concerts – two by Garner's own Scott McCreery and one by country music star Jake Owen.

New entertainment at the fair included the Kenya Safari Acrobats, the One Man Band, Spoon Man and the Tree of Life.

Troxler said organizers will soon begin planning for the 2013 N.C. State Fair, scheduled for Oct. 17-27.

From the tractor

Commissioner Troxler

I hope many of our Agricultural Review subscribers were able to attend this year's N.C. State Fair in Raleigh or the Mountain State Fair in Fletcher. If you missed them, then you missed a good time.

Both were successful fairs that highlighted what makes our state great. From the livestock shows to the clogging and singing competitions, to the arts and crafts and homemade foods and home goods, fairs put the best of the best of our state on display for everyone to see and enjoy.

Competitions remain a big part of the fairs, and, in Raleigh, the competition seemed as tough as it has ever been. Entries were up in nearly every category, which makes me proud that folks want to participate in their State Fair, not just experience it as an observer.

The continued strong interest by junior livestock competitors bodes well for the future of agriculture in this state. Beyond the glare of the midway lights and the sounds of music and laughter, the kids participating in the livestock competitions are learning invaluable lessons about responsibility, about life, and about where food comes from. I am proud of each and every junior competitor that stepped into the show ring. You all are part of an unbroken tradition that makes our fair unique and keeps our fair rooted in an industry that built this state and continues to sustain us.

We have many great sponsors that help us continue to provide a high quality State Fair. This year Harris Teeter, Martin Meats, the N.C. Farm Bureau, Talley Farms and Iron Horse Auction stepped up to make significant purchases of grand and reserve grand champion junior livestock animals, and I thank them for that. EBS Farms, Chesnee Livestock Market, Martin Meats, Macs Cattle Sales, Stanley County Livestock, Harward Brothers Livestock, Blue Q Ranch and E.B. Harris chipped in to purchase the market steer truckload.

A total of $89,600 went to junior competitors from across the state. Some of this money is earmarked to help pay for college.

Photos of all the grand champions are on pages 1 and 2, and a list of winners follows. The grand champion junior market steer was shown by Bill Jones of Buncombe County. Harris Teeter placed the winning bid of $22,500. Jones also showed the N.C. Born and Bred steer, which was purchased by Martin Meats for $13,000. Wilson County's Luke Lahay showed the reserve grand champion junior market steer. The steer was purchased by Harris Teeter for $10,000.

Mackenzie Cox of Onslow County showed the grand champion junior market barrow, purchased by Harris Teeter for $9,500. The reserve grand
