State Fair shatters record

More than 1 million people attend

When the 2010 N.C. State Fair ended, a record 1,091,887 people had helped make it a Fair for the history books. It was the first time the State Fair had ever broken the 1 million visitor mark.

"We were blessed with near perfect weather for the 11-day run, eight record-setting days and three sold-out concerts in Dorton Arena," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "We are happy to have broken through the one-million mark, but more importantly we are happy folks had a great time when they came out to the Fair. Everywhere you looked, you saw people having fun with their friends and family. That's what makes the Fair such a lasting tradition."

The Fair posted one-day attendance records on both Thursdays, both Fridays, both Sundays, in addition to Tuesday, Oct. 19, and Saturday, Oct. 23.

Thursday, Oct. 21, was also the largest Food Lion Hunger Relief Day, with 246,779 pounds of food collected for the Food Bank of Central and Eastern North Carolina.

Christian-acts Casting Crowns and Chris Tomlin, and country singer Darius Rucker performed to sell-out crowds in Dorton Arena. The line-up also featured the Carolina Chocolate Drops, a North Carolina band.

Competitive entries to the Fair remained strong, with a large number of competitors in the livestock, horticulture, hobbies and handicrafts, and arts and crafts categories.

"I cannot thank all our fairgoers enough for making this such a great year," Troxler said. "We appreciate the support people have shown the State Fair and look forward to next year's event. Go ahead and mark your calendar for Oct. 13-23, 2011."

NCDA&CS Seed Lab moving; samples must go to new address

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services Seed Laboratory will move to a temporary location at the Beneficial Insect Laboratory at 950 E. Chatham St. in Cary beginning Nov. 29. Lab users shipping samples through FedEx or UPS will need to send them to a new address.

"The seed laboratory will be closed for the week of Nov. 29 through Dec. 3 to accommodate the movement of equipment, supplies and staff," said Gene Cross, director of the Plant Industry Division. "Testing services will resume Dec. 6 at the NCDA&CS Beneficial Insects Laboratory. Our goal is to minimize the interruption of service to our customers."

Beginning Dec. 6, seed samples will need to be addressed as follows depending on method of delivery:

- For U.S. Postal Service: NCDA&CS-NC Seed Laboratory, 1060 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, NC 27699-1060;
- For Fed-Ex or UPS: NCDA&CS-Beneficial Insect Laboratory, 950 E. Chatham St., Cary, NC 27511.

The move is happening because of the needed replacement of the heating and air-conditioning system and renovation of the seed laboratory in downtown Raleigh. The work is expected to take six to eight months.

Starting Dec. 6, contact numbers for the seed lab will be (919) 233-7072 or 233-7073.

The N.C. Seed Laboratory provides support for both the regulatory and service work of the NCDA&CS seed and fertilizer field specialists, seed dealers, producers, consumers and university researchers. Testing focuses on purity and germination rates for seeds, accelerated aging, Round-Up Ready tolerance, sand and moisture content.

Farmland preservation grants offered; deadline is Dec. 15

County governments and non-profit groups pursuing farmland preservation projects can apply for funding assistance from the N.C. Agricultural Development and Farmland Preservation Trust Fund, Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler announced.

Applications and guidelines for the 2011 funding cycle are available online at www.ncadfp.org or by calling (919)

707-3071. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Dec. 15.

The General Assembly appropriated $2 million to the trust fund for the 2010-11 fiscal year.

"The trust fund supports projects that encourage the preservation of qualifying agricultural, horticultural and forest lands," Troxler said. "The goal is to cultivate the growth, development and sustainability of family farms."

Grants can be awarded to secure agricultural conservation easements on lands used for agricultural production; to support public and private enterprise programs that promote profitable and sustainable agricultural, horticultural and forestland activities; and for the development of agricultural plans.

by Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler

Like many people, the holidays and the end of the year serve as reminders to pause and take stock of the year coming to a close.

This year has included a number of highlights for agriculture.

Despite the economy struggling to regain momentum, the state's agriculture and agribusiness sector experienced 6 percent growth. It remains North Carolina's leading industry, generating more than $74 billion to the economy and employing nearly a fifth of the workforce.

The trickle-down effect of these farm dollars is especially significant in rural areas of the state, where farm income supports local businesses, service-related jobs, schools and local governments. I hope to continue to see this kind of growth in the future. We remain committed to promoting North Carolina farm products and helping consumers learn more about all the great food and food products produced here in this state.

This year also saw the state's buy-local movement really gain traction. More and more restaurants are promoting the fact that they are featuring local meats, vegetables, fruits, cheeses and more on their menus.

A good many of our grocery chains are now stocking and highlighting local products because of customer demand. Both of these venues have helped farmers sell their products.

The department's Farm to School program is another bright spot. This program posted a record 2009-2010 year with $800,000 worth of North Carolina commodities being served in school cafeterias across the state.

This program continues to gain in popularity with school kids, school nutrition directors and farmers. Commodity sales for the 2009-2010 school year were $100,000 above the previous year's totals.

In addition, agricultural exports increased by more than a billion dollars, thanks in part to focused international marketing efforts. For the first time ever, our agricultural (See Bright spots, pg. 2) exports topped $3 billion, and with China's growing economy, I believe we will continue to see export gains in the future.

And finally, we saw our best-attended State Fair in the history of the event. More than 1 million people came through the gates this year, shattering the previous record by nearly 200,000.

We are already making plans for 2011. I hope we'll see you there next year, Oct. 13-23.

There have been some other highlights this year as well, but these are a few that stand out in my mind as examples of good programs that are contributing to the economy and supporting jobs and small businesses.
