

Correction: The pesticide settlements that ran in the January Ag Review incorrectly cited Adam White of Lexington for damaging another grower's soybean crop. The settlement agreement that Adam White of Lexington and the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services agreed to was for not attending the mandatory auxin training needed to apply products with dicamba.