<td>On 8/1/07, I made a visit to the Wake County Animal Care and Control. The reason for my visit was for a complaint about the ambient temperature in the kennel area. Ms. Jane Taylor was concerned about the health of the animals because of the warm temperature in the kennel. I walked to the kennel area's and upon opening the door, I could feel it was warm. The kennel area has thermometers. The thermometers were reading 95°. This is the 2nd time I have visited this facility and the temperature was still 95° or so that day in the kennel area. There are small fans operating to circulate the air but they don't alleviate the warm temperatures. The Animal Welfare Rules state the ambient temperature should register from 50° to 85°. The facility is not within compliance.</td>
